EXPLORE THE ISLAND

Maui has 30-plus miles of accessible shoreline, more than any other Hawaiian island. Spend the day on some 80 picturesque spots with black, red, white or gold sand. Then there's "The Valley Isle's" lush, tropical rural landscape, dotted with farms and plantations, rushing waterfalls and hidden valleys, punctuated by dramatic steep mountains. Coral reefs teeming with colorful sea life line the coast, while on land, there's Haleakalā, the biggest dormant volcano on Earth, and its colorful crater, Haleakalā National Park and the fabled Road to Hāna. Epic hiking, horseback riding, whale watching and water sports abound — namely, surfing, stand-up paddle boarding, snorkeling, scuba diving, sailing and paddling. And finally, there are the warm, welcoming locals with their aloha spirit and distinctive Polynesian culture.
